NATIVE AMERICAN AWARDS

The Smithsonian Institution's Native American Awards Program supports Native American students and scholars, who are formally or informally affiliated with a Native American community or tribe, to visit the Institution to use its Native American-related resources in association with or under the supervision of Smithsonian research staff.

Awards are made on the basis of evaluations and recommendations by a Smithsonian review committee.

Internship Awards are available for students currently enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate program. Interns pursue directed-research projects supervised by Smithsonian staff members. Intern applicants should return the attached application form, essay, transcripts and recommendations. Stipends are $350 per week for 10 week periods, with an additional travel allowance.

Visiting Student Awards are available for currently enrolled advanced graduate students. Visiting Students pursue independently designed research projects in association with Smithsonian staff. Applicants should submit the attached application form, a brief statement describing their proposed research project, a copy of their résumé, transcripts and recommendation letters. Stipends are $100 per day for up to 21 days and $350 per week for 3 to 10 weeks, a travel allowance and a small research allowance.

Community Scholar Awards are available for individuals to pursue independently designed research projects in association with Smithsonian staff. Applicants should submit the attached application form, a brief statement describing their proposed research project, a copy of their résumé, and recommendation letters. Stipends are $100 per day for up to 21 days, a travel allowance and a small research allowance.

Deadlines: Applications should be received by February 1st for Summer (to begin after June 1st), and June 1st for Fall (begin after October 1st), and October 1st for Winter/Spring (to begin after February 1st).
