Regent Robert Kogod is a trustee of Vornado Realty Trust from which the Smithsonian leases office space. The Smithsonian selected this office space through a Request for Proposal (RFP) process without the involvement of Mr. Kogod.
Regent Shirley Ann Jackson is a director of Federal Express. The Smithsonian is a long-standing customer of Federal Express for the type of mail and package delivery services Federal Express offers to similar institutions and the public, and the relationship predates Ms. Jackson's service on the Smithsonian Board of Regents.

Regent Philip Frost is a director of Northrop Grumman Corporation, which has been a long-standing contractor for the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory. Contracts for these services, which were awarded to Northrop Grumman, predate Mr. Frost's appointment to the Board of Regents.

Smithsonian fellowships and grants are open to all qualified individuals without reference to race, color, religion, sex and condition of handicap or age of applicant. Candidates are evaluated on the scholarly merit of their proposals, their ability to carry out the proposed research and study; likelihood that the research can be completed during the requested appointment period; and the extent to which the Smithsonian, through its research staff members and resources, can contribute to the proposed research project.
