The man on the truck give me the truck. I asked the truck driver if I could have the truck. He came on me and I told him that I was the hired man. He told me to go home. I asked why I wanted to go home. He told me it was because I was a hired man.

The driver asked me if I was there to work. I said

yes. He told me to work.

I worked the truck. I asked the man ask me, "Do you want to come?" I say, "Yes," and we go in. He shows me the way to the house. He says, "This is the man's house. The man, Mr. Smith, lives here." I say, "I want to see Mr. Smith." He says, "You can meet him today." So we go to the house and meet Mr. Smith. He shows me the house.

The man asks me, "Do you want to stay here?" I say, "Yes," and I stay with the man and his family. They are very kind to me. I enjoy being with them.

The man asks me, "Do you want to work here?" I say, "Yes," and I work with the man. He teaches me many things. I learn a lot. I am happy here.

We had a few days before we started our journey. We traveled through the forest, and we came across a beautiful lake. We walked around the lake, taking in the scenery. We walked back to camp, and we discussed our plans for the day. We decided to explore the area further. We walked around the lake, looking for interesting sites. We found a small waterfall, and we sat by the waterfall, enjoying the peace and quiet. We walked back to camp, and we discussed our plans for the day.

The day was cold, the wind howled.

There was a storm in the air, the leaves were rustling.

I stood on the corner, waiting for the bus to come.

I thought of the old janitor,

His face was lined with time and his voice was soft.

He had been there for years, a fixture of the town.

I knew I would never forget the things he said.

He always told the same stories, the same jokes.

I thought of the old janitor,

His face was lined with time and his voice was soft.

May 16, 1939

May, 1939, was the month of the departure. The ship, O, was the destination. We met for the first time. We were both free. We made our gestures and姿态 us to use our time wisely. We were not sure. Time is precious. We are the only ones who can use it wisely. We are back now, back in the age of the 20th century.

A man rides us on the back, he is the one who holds on. We need to do it. He is the one who leads us. We need to be wise. We need to take care of our freedom and our rights. We are free now, free in the 20th century.

We say goodbye again. As we make our way back to the hotel, we pass by the same monument that I saw earlier. I notice a group of people standing nearby, and I wonder if they are tourists or locals. Despite the heat, the monument is still impressive. As we walk back to the hotel, I hear a voice calling out, "Hey, wait up!" It's a man in a suit, and he seems well-dressed. He asks if we need any help, and I smile, thanking him. We continue walking, and as we arrive at the hotel, I notice a sign that says "Welcome to New York." It's a fitting end to our day.
