National Museum
of African American History and Culture

Since opening on the National Mall, the museum has become as iconic as the Smithsonian
Castle, pictured on the cover.

When the Smithsonian campaign began, we knew we were aspiring to achieve something that had never been done before. Our goal of $1.5 billion made for the most ambitious campaign ever mounted by a cultural organization. And, thanks to you, we surpassed even that.

With contributions from more than half a million donors hailing from all 50 states and 107 countries, we came together to raise $1.88 billion. It is an incredible achievement, and the credit goes to you.

The Smithsonian belongs to each and every one of us. And that means we are its stewards. Our shared passion and patriotism fuel the work of the scientists, curators and others who dedicate their lives to sharing their knowledge with millions of visitors, in person or online, every year.

The Smithsonian matters more than ever as a force for civic engagement in America. For our next chapter, we are charting a course that will make us more relevant, with even greater reach and impact. The following pages give a glimpse into all that this great Institution accomplishes—all because of you. Thank you.

$1.88 BILLION

The largest amount ever raised in a campaign by a cultural organization

$412 million
endowment

$197 million
planned gifts

1/3
of funds raised came
from board members

537,720 DONORS

from all 50 states and 107 countries

46%
first-time donors

93%
made gifts
of $100 or less

356
donors of $1 million
or more

National Museum
of African American History and Culture

The opening of the Smithsonian's 19th museum
was one of the campaign's
most significant milestones.

The strength of the Smithsonian
comes from the powerful sum of its parts,
propelled by generous donors like you.

More than 750,000 square feet
of new or renovated galleries
and public spaces opened.

Kehinde Wiley, Barack Obama,
2018. National Portrait Gallery.

More than 750,000 square feet of new or renovated galleries and public spaces opened.

Combined, these spaces welcome about 25 million visitors each year to experience the nation's collection of art, history and scientific discoveries firsthand. Campaign gifts contributed to new innovative technologies, revitalized galleries, public gathering places and inventive displays. People come to our museums to make sense of the past, wrestle with the present and leave with a renewed sense of optimism for the future.

- P8— The National Postal Museum
The new William H. Gross Stamp Gallery, which explores history and geography through postal stamps, enabled the museum to double its exhibition space.
- P9— Renwick Gallery
Following a two-year renovation, the Renwick reopened in 2015 with Wonder, a donor-supported exhibition that explored environmental issues through art.
- P10— National Portrait Gallery
A transformed America's Presidents gallery provides visitors with new ways to understand the nation's 44 past leaders, including through bilingual interpretation.
- P11— National Museum of American History
The museum's renovated and reimagined west wing hosts American Democracy: A Great Leap of Faith, which explores the history of citizen participation, debate and compromise.
- P12— National Air and Space Museum
A renovated Boeing Milestones of Flight Hall reopened in 2016 with new digital technologies to enrich the visitor experience.

More than 6.3 million people annually are served by education programs in our museums.

Many of these programs are offered through eight new education centers made possible by gifts to the Smithsonian Campaign. Visitors of all ages and walks of life explore the world around them, gaining a deeper understanding of our planet, culture and history. Millions more engage through digital channels. So, no matter where you are, you can connect with our extraordinary collections, world-class experts, interactive activities and trusted school curricula.

Smithsonian research fuels life-changing discoveries.

The pioneering work of our scholars is advancing how we understand and experience the natural world and our place in it. Gifts to the Smithsonian Campaign have funded scientific breakthroughs across all fields — from saving endangered species to measuring our oceans' evolving ecosystems and investigating the black hole at the center of our galaxy. Through investments in our scientific research, the campaign's impact will be felt for generations to come.

- P26— National Zoo
 Gifts supporting National Zoo research helped downgrade the giant panda from “endangered” to “vulnerable” on the list of species at risk of extinction.
- P27— Marine Geo & Tennenbaum Marine Observatories Network
Smithsonian Environmental Research Center
 In 2012, the Smithsonian launched the first worldwide research program to monitor the oceans' coastal ecosystems over time.
- P28— National Museum of Natural History
 Through the Global Genome Initiative, Smithsonian scientists capture the Earth's genomic biodiversity and make it accessible to researchers everywhere.
- P29— Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory
 Thanks to donor support for the Event Horizon Telescope, astronomers are on the verge of capturing the first image of a black hole.
- P30— Smithsonian Conservation Biology Institute
 Smithsonian scientists helped return 25 scimitar-horned oryx to their natural habitat in Chad.

Embracing Digital Innovation

We have digitized more than
3 million Smithsonian objects.

We have digitized more than
3 million Smithsonian objects.

Karl and Marion Zerbe diary,
detail, 1941, Karl Zerbe papers,
Archives of American Art

We have digitized more than
3 million Smithsonian objects.

The Smithsonian Campaign has enabled us to expand access to our collections through the digitization of objects, reaching people anytime, anywhere. Now, our collections and scholarship reach well beyond our gallery walls. Every year, more than 150 million people explore our websites as they follow their passions and interests to make new discoveries.

- P40— Freer|Sackler

With support from Autodesk, Inc., the Freer|Sackler developed a 3-D scan of the Cosmic Buddha, allowing anyone, anywhere to study this masterpiece of Buddhist art.
- P41— Cooper Hewitt, Smithsonian Design Museum

With support from the campaign, Cooper Hewitt introduced breakthrough creative technologies, including the Cooper Hewitt digital pen—a global first for a museum.
- P42— Archives of American Art

Through an endowment for digitization, the Archives has increased access to its collection on the history of visual arts in America.
- P43— Smithsonian Center for Learning and Digital Access

What do you see, think, wonder? The online Smithsonian Learning Lab helps teachers and students discover and use the Smithsonian's collections.
- P44— Smithsonian Science Education Center

The center's digital curriculum resources, online games, apps and iBooks improve the teaching and learning of science in K-12 classrooms nationwide.

Reaching Into Your Community

Each year more than 4.5 million people visit Smithsonian-organized exhibitions in their own cities.

Each year more than 4.5 million people visit Smithsonian-organized exhibitions in their own cities.

Each year more than 4.5 million people visit Smithsonian-organized exhibitions in their own cities.

Gifts to the Smithsonian Campaign furthered that reach by funding traveling exhibitions such as Destination Moon: The Apollo 11 Mission; pop-up “Culture Labs” in New York and Honolulu; and education programs in schools all over the country. The Smithsonian strives to bring its knowledge and collections to all Americans. We introduce our education curricula to classrooms in school districts around the nation, and millions more visit affiliate museums in every state.

- P52— Smithsonian Affiliations
Springfield Museums in Springfield, Mass.—a Smithsonian Affiliate—commemorated the 100th anniversary of John F. Kennedy’s birth with a photography exhibition.
- P53— Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden
The Hirshhorn exhibition Yayoi Kusama: Infinity Mirrors brings a one-of-a-kind sensory journey to five North American cities through 2019.
- P54— Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service
Smithsonian traveling exhibition Things Come Apart reveals the inner workings of everyday objects such as a watch or a guitar.
- P55— Smithsonian Asian Pacific American Center
Three pop-up “Culture Labs”—in New York City; Washington, D.C.; and Honolulu—brought together artists and community members to explore social issues through art.
- P56— National Air and Space Museum Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service
Destination Moon: The Apollo 11 Mission commemorates the first lunar landing in 1969. It travels to four American cities through 2019.

Gifts to the Smithsonian Campaign endowed 68 positions across the Institution.

These positions include six directors, 17 curators and 45 fellows — all respected experts bringing new knowledge to their fields. The strength of the Smithsonian is its people. Our scholars tell America's story, conduct groundbreaking research and preserve the nation's cultural heritage. Investing in our experts today pays dividends that will benefit the nation and world for decades to come.

- P70— Young Scholars (group)
These young scholars are among many who launched or advanced their careers at the Smithsonian, thanks to campaign donations.
- P71— Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute
Frank H. Levinson Chair in Global Forest Science Stuart Davies conducts research on diversity in tropical forests across 24 countries.
- P72— National Museum of African American History and Culture
Mellon Curator of Photography and Visual Culture Aaron Bryant curated the More Than a Picture exhibition, which showcases communal moments that illuminate African American life.
- P73— Freer | Sackler
Melvin R. Seiden Curator of Chinese art Jan Stuart curated Red: Ming Dynasty/Mark Rothko, a pairing of an imperial Chinese porcelain dish and a painting by Mark Rothko.
- P74— National Museum of Natural History
First hired as a Peter Buck Fellow, Deep Time Education Specialist Laura Soul researches how we can best model evolutionary and ecological change of extinct vertebrates.

American History

Gifts to the campaign have transformed the west wing, allowing the museum to present exhibitions on American ideas and ideals.
